

MEMORANDUM

DATE: June 19, 2020

TO: All COE Faculty

FROM: Robyn Fillinger

SUBJECT: Mentored Teaching Fellowships

The College is now accepting applications for the Fall 2020 Mentored Teaching Fellowships (MTF) Program. The deadline is Tuesday, June 30 at noon. Ten MTFs at $1000 each, per semester, will be offered ($200 monthly).

The goal of the MTF Program is to provide engineering graduate students with an opportunity to gain teaching experience, beyond that of a regular teaching assistant prior to entering an academic career.

In this program, a student/faculty team chooses a course that they will teach together. The responsibilities of the student can range from participating within the current course structure to developing new methods of teaching the material. All student activities are monitored and reviewed by the faculty mentor, so feedback can enhance the experience gained by the student. Upon completion of the course offering the student and the professor are required to submit a joint paper in which they summarize their activities and make recommendations on ways to enhance the MTF program (one page).

I encourage you to present this opportunity to any students you feel would be interested. During the semester in which they participate in the MTF Program, accepted students will receive a fellowship stipend of $1000 per semester from the College of Engineering.

If you have any questions regarding this program, please don't hesitate to contact me.
